Free or Not Free: That is the Question.

The question about free will has come up in two different adult study gatherings. (No, these gatherings are not philosophy classes!) The question about free will came from two discussions about real life:

- In an age when lots of people do not believe, how does someone actually come to believe? Is it a choice we make with our free will?
- What about people who are alcoholics or who suffer from other kinds of addiction? Do they have the free will to stop drinking? Do they have the free will to say to themselves, "I'm not going to drink and drive?"

These are questions, first of all, that are born of anxiety or grief or anger.

- Why don't people believe any more? Our church is going to die!
- Those horrible drunk drivers ... what are we going to do with them!

Underneath the Questions

Questions born of anxiety or grief or anger come from the part of our brain that demands a "flight or fight" response. Human beings are created in the image of God, so we are capable of responding with more than this natural instinct; we are capable of responding as God would respond: "slow to anger, and abounding in steadfast love" (Exodus 34:6, Numbers 14:18, Nehemiah 9:17, Psalm 86:15, 103:8, 145:8, etc.). Anxiety or grief or anger are cries for healing, for the kind of healing that begins in biblical stories with a messenger from God or even God himself saying, "Peace be with you." Or "Don't be afraid." So we answer these questions patiently, abounding in steadfast love.

The two questions about free will raised above involve two different kinds of actions:

- What actions do we take in relationship to God?

DEADLINE FOR THE NEXT GOOD NEWS OF GRACE: The next "Good News of Grace" will be sent out the week of February 27. Please have articles in to the Church Office by 12:00 noon on Monday, February 27.

- What actions do we take in relationship to people?

Though answers to these questions that I trust in point to the idea of an extremely limited free will.

Question #1

In our relationship to God, Lutherans follow the teachings of Martin Luther:

I believe that by my own understanding or strength I cannot believe in Jesus Christ my Lord or come to him, but instead the Holy Spirit has called me through the gospel, enlightened me with his gifts, made me holy and kept me in the true faith ... (Luther's explanation to the Third Article of the Apostles' Creed in the Small Catechism)

Luther makes it clear that we have no ability to believe in Jesus except as it is granted to us by the Holy Spirit ... and only if we hear the gospel. People simply can't choose to believe in God. And on the other side of the coin, although people often choose to reject God, it's more than likely that they're doing so based on insufficient evidence. They may have been to church and not heard the gospel or not heard of their need for the gospel, so the Holy Spirit didn't have much to work with to create faith in them. Jesus begged his Father to forgive people for making decisions based on insufficient evidence (Luke 23:34).

Question #2

Luther's understanding of free will in our relationship to God is what's underneath one of the confessions used by Lutherans for years:

Most merciful God, we confess that we are captive (or in bondage) to sin and cannot free ourselves.

That our wills are captive to sin as if we are slaves: this is similar to and different from the understanding of free will in relationship to alcoholism and other addictions.

Like sin, addiction is defined as a slavery from which we cannot free ourselves by our own free will. So Alcoholics Anonymous founders Bill Wilson and Dr. Robert Holbrook Smith thought "The First Step" for recovery from an addiction is:

We admitted we were powerless over our addiction - that our lives had become unmanageable.

Unlike sin, however, research agrees that addiction is an illness, not a matter of choice of our free will.

Like sin, the founders of AA believed that this illness can be "healed" only "by a Power greater than ourselves."

A Power Greater than Our Selves

Jesus is the Power greater than ourselves. Jesus was a healer! For people who were both physically and mentally ill. And, in the gospel of John, Jesus' crucifixion was like the sacrifice of the Passover Lamb, who saved the people of Israel from the death and was a signal that God was at work freeing them from slavery in Egypt.

So ...

- in the case of doubt or unbelief or rejection of God based on insufficient evidence,
- in the case of being slaves to sin (What does this mean? For starters, see Romans 7:15 - 25)
- and in the case of being slaves to the illnesses called addiction:

people are powerless; people have no free will. Which is scary. Which is why the world is scary. But against all the evils of the world, people are powerless? Yes, people are powerless against evil: our violent acts will not help; our angry, hateful words will not help; building walls will not help. Yes, people are powerless against evil, unless they have heard the gospel, the good news that there is a Power than themselves who wants to restore their lives and this world to sanity through forgiveness and freedom from slaveries of all kinds.

That people are powerless against evil seems like bad news. And it is, if people have no idea about who God is. But when people understand their lack of power against evil and someone tells them some good news about God, there's some good news the Holy Spirit can work with to create faith and hope and healing. Be that someone. You'll change the world. One person at a time. Which is what disciples of Jesus have been doing all along.

THANK YOU TO GRACE

GIFTS FROM GRACE ...

We received the following thank you notes from Faith Lutheran Church in Clintonville and the Ecumenical Partnership for Housing (EPH) for recent gifts we gave to them.

The gift to Faith came from Grace's Mission Endowment Fund. It is a trust fund made up of and continuing to accept memorials and bequests from members of Grace. The Mission Endowment Committee elected by the congregation makes decisions about annual gifts from the fund based on gift guidelines written for the fund and approved by Council. Faith Lutheran in Clintonville is a congregation made up of people who belonged to churches that left the E.L.C.A. and who wanted a Lutheran faith home. They banded together in Clintonville and were served initially by Pastor Ron Nielsen who was a member of Grace before moving to Minnesota in 2010. They have grown strong enough to purchase a small building and are continuing their ministry there.

The gift to EPH was our congregation's annual contribution to EPH that we make from our General Fund as charter members of the organization.

From Faith Lutheran Church, Clintonville

Dear Sisters and Brothers in Christ,

As one year ends and another begins, we would like to take the time to express our appreciation for your generous support of our growing mission. We have seen growth and have much to be thankful for. Please count your generosity and prayers among our cherished gifts.

Yours in Christ

From Bev Larsen, Health Ministries Coordinator

Since we have had so many cloudy days, I thought this month's health article could be about SAD. Seasonal Affective Disorder or SAD may be affecting you or someone you know.

Seasonal Affective Disorder or SAD is a form of depression that occurs in relation to the seasons, most commonly in the winter. SAD is more common in people who live in areas where the days are very short or have less sunshine. It is also more prevalent in women, those between the ages of 15 and 55, and people who have a close relative with SAD.

People in Wisconsin may start seeing symptoms as early as October which may last even until March. SAD has symptoms of depression that are so serious that a person's work or relationship may be affected. This disorder may start in adolescence or early adulthood. Most people who have the "winter blahs" or "cabin fever" do not have seasonal affective disorder.

The cause of SAD is unknown, but could be related to body temperature or hormone regulation.

Some of symptoms of Seasonal Affective Disorder may be depression at the onset of winter, lack of energy, decrease interest in work or other activities, increased appetite especially craving complex carbohydrates such as bread or pasta, weight gain, increased sleep and excessive daytime sleepiness, socially withdrawn, and slow sluggish movements.

It is difficult to tell the difference between SAD and non-seasonal depression because many of the symptoms are alike. Your physician may order blood tests to check for other conditions such as under active thyroid.

The doctor may ask you about any changes in your sleep pattern, appetite, energy level, and mood changes. A mental health assessment may be done to evaluate a person's emotional functioning and ability to think and remember. During this assessment, the physician may also evaluate your appearance, mood, and behavior. The doctor will want to know if in the past two years you have been depressed during the same season and then gotten better when the season changed. If someone in your family has seasonal affective disorder, this should also be mentioned to the doctor.

The primary treatment for Seasonal Affective Disorder or SAD is light. The patient is exposed to 20 minutes of light with a lamp every morning. 75-80% of patients get better with the light therapy. Antidepressants may be ordered if the light therapy is not successful.

THANK YOU CONT'D.

From EPH

Dear Members of Grace Lutheran Church,

Thank you very much for your gift of $1,000 to Ecumenical Partnership for Housing. Thank you for your continued support.

In 2016 we provided safety, stability, and solutions to a total of 46 families which included 96 children. Of the 46 families, 38 were in transitional housing and 8 were in long-term supportive housing.

Our EPH staff is here to serve you. If there is anything we can do to further share the EPH story as well as our vision for the future, please let us know.

Thank you again for being a valued partner, and for your care and preparation of the Matthew home for families. Thank you for making a difference.

*Blessings,
David B. Pietenpol, Executive Director
Ecumenical Partnership for Housing*

AN INVITATION FOR WOMEN

6:08 Wednesday.....a new group for women

Hello ladies!

I am very excited to extend an invitation to you! From day one of my coming back to Grace, it's been my heart's desire to begin a small group! We have met twice now...and I'm loving my time with the gals who have joined me!

During our time, we chat and have Bible study. We chat and listen to and discuss a song. We chat and close with prayer.

No matter what we do, the intent is to have it be comfortable for everyone. It doesn't matter if you've memorized the Bible or if you have to look high and low for it...and then dust it off! It can be a time to share or just listen. (Even though I say we chat, you absolutely can sit quietly and listen to the chatter... completely fine!)

*We have much to offer and gain from each other. It's a time for faith and friendships to grow. I know that through the years my women's bible study and small group played a huge role in my faith life and personal life. The trust was beyond measure....even if I didn't see "the girls" for periods of time. I want for each of you to have the opportunity to experience this as well!

Here are the details:

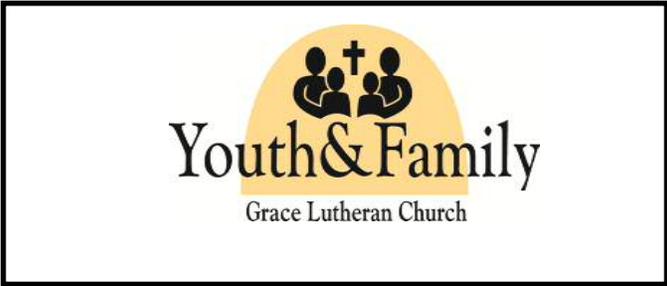

We meet on Wednesday nights at 6:08 (during Lent it will be 6:38) in the library! We end at 7:15. There is child care available. (First through sixth graders are welcome to ring chimes with Lisa and sing and laugh with Don!)

Of course, I'd suggest making it an easy night by bringing yourself or your family to church to eat at 5:30! Great food! No cooking! Minimal clean up! (There is a suggested donation of $3/per person. Please do not stay away if that's a hardship. Let's chat!)

No words to express how much I look forward to time with you next Wednesday!

*God's blessings!
Carrie Crane*

If you are interested but hesitant, please just come! Perhaps you might say to yourself that you'll try it for 4 weeks or until Easter! Maybe it will be until we've grown so large that you become a leader of another small group! Just come!*

DONATIONS FOR SILENT AUCTION:

It's time to start thinking about how you might be a part of our 2017 Silent Auction! What might you have to offer? Time and talent? Donated (new or homemade) items? Be creative and know that your gifts will benefit our July Mission Trip to Washington D.C. All items should come to the church office by Sunday, February 26. Bidding begins on Saturday, March 4 and closes at 12:15 p.m. on Sunday, March 5th!

And, yes! There will be a tasty brat fry on Sunday morning!
